OUR £2000 OFFER!!

A STARTLING OFFER is contained in the following announcement.

A LIFE-TIME'S PRIZE. PUT MONEY IN YOUR POCKET instead of paying it away for other people's gain! Is not this worth your while? Carefully read and follow the simple instructions. You know that the manufacturer supplying thousands daily can do so at LESS THAN HALF the price charged by the jobber supplying only one, at the same time. This is put our position. SEND YOUR NAME only for my Splendid Pictorial Guide Book, glowing with over a thousand illustrations of my world famed manufactures. Post free. I send direct to the public, during this month, for the SECOND QUALITY at 15-. I recommend this watch as strong and durable.

THOUSANDS HASTEN. TRY TO-DAY!

who cut out the Coupon and send it with Postal Order for the amount. I will enclose THE SPLENDID "PLATORIDE" GOLD ALBERT CHAIN, as shown in the engraving for a Lady's Beautiful Albert. It perfectly willbe worn with a watch, and is the chain at present most in vogue for the wear of gold chains. This Specially rich and Elegant Chain is an EXTRA GIFT, entirely in addition to the Watch Prize, and, remember, each of which are fully warranted for 5 years. Address, 907, 908, which accompanies my Pictorial Guide Book.

Purchasers therefore receive Double Gifts this week! The IMMENSE SUCCESS of H. Samuel's famous watches has flooded the market with worthless imitations, offered under various delusive names. Such imitations are frequently the sweepings of the market, and soon show their characteristics. H. Samuel's Watches always reliable! Always Valuable! Always Satisfactory! Refuse all inferior lines and send to H. Samuel direct. You will be amazed at the splendid value received as stated in my Pictorial Guide.

THE MOST DELICIOUS, NUTRITIVE & DIGESTIBLE

The London Medical Record says:—

"It is retained after every other Food has been rejected. It is invaluable."

THE CHOLERA OF 1884 proved that it almost really relief telling you of the marvellous results of Benger's Food. Not only am I quite convinced of its rapid saving power, but I am assured that it is the best and finds great interest.

A LADY writes that I consider that, humanly speaking, Benger's Food entirely saved her little boy's life. He had four other well-known foods, but could retain nothing until Benger's Food was tried."

DR. SCOTT'S PILLS

prepared without mercury are invaluable to all who suffer from BILIOUS and LIVER COMPLAINTS, INDIGESTION, WIND, SPASMS, NERVOUS DEPRESSION, IRRITABILITY, LASSITUDE, LOSS OF APPETITE, DYSPEPSIA, HEARTBURN, and GIDDINESS.

DR. SCOTT'S PILLS

are invaluable for HABITUAL COSTIVENESS, CONFIRMED SLUGGISHNESS OF LIVER, or for persons suffering from FLUES. They can be taken at any time without restriction of occupation or pleasure, hence they are a most valuable domestic medicine.

DR. SCOTT'S PILLS

as a GENERAL FAMILY APERIENT MEDICINE have no equal, being mild in their operation, and grateful to the stomach. They give a healthy action to and regulate the different secretions, causing the necessary organs of the Stomach and Liver to resume their activity, thus restoring the appetite, promoting digestion, and strengthening the whole system.

DR. SCOTT'S PILLS

are wrapped in a square, green package bearing the name of the proprietor, W. LAMBERT, 173, Seymour Place, London, or, by post for 14 or 34 stamps.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES. Valuable and never failing remedies for all irregularities and obstructions, however obstinate or long standing, will not fail. Sent in a sealed letter, with full particulars how to use them, on receipt of 14 stamps. This Prescription is in the hands of a Minister who will befriend anyone suffering from these enervating complaints. Dose.

ONE BOX OF CLARKE'S B 41 PILLS is warranted to cure all discharges from the Urinary Organs, in either sex (recent or constitutional), Gravel, and Pains in the Back. Guaranteed free from Mercury. Sold in Boxes, 2s. 6d. each, by all Chemists and Patent Medicine Vendors throughout the World; or sent to any address for 33 stamps by the Sole Proprietor, THE LINCOLN AND MIDLAND COUNTIES DRUG COMPANY, Lincoln. Wholesale agents, BARCLAY & SONS London, and all the Wholesale Houses.

TOWLE'S PENNYROYAL and STEEL PILLS are a Female's Quickly correct all irregularities, remove all obstructions, and relieve the distressing symptoms so prevalent with the sex. Sold in boxes, 2s. 9d. (the latter contains three times the quantity), of all chemists. Sent anywhere on receipt of 33 or 54 stamps by the maker, E. T. Towle, Chemist, Nottingham. Beware of imitations, spurious and worthless.

"Dear Sir,—It is with unbounded pleasure I send you a few lines in praise of your most excellent Pills. It is six years since I had Rheumatic Gout, and I had three months in bed with it. Of course I had the doctor, and he sweated me down almost to a skeleton. The next spring I had Rheumatic Gout, and I was persuaded by a friend to try your Pills. I did so, and am quite sure they prevented my being laid up again. Ever since when I have had the least pain I have taken two or three Pills, [and] have been all right again directly.

I WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM IF THEY COST ONE POUND A BOTTLE.

You are quite at liberty to make what use you like of this, and I shall be pleased to answer any poor sufferer who cares to write me (enclosing stamped address). Wishing you every success,

"Yours truly,

CHAPTER XV.

SHADOWS.

As the sun set the temperature fell; until the night bid fair to be one of the coldest of the winter. Domestic New York hugged its fireside or sat over its register; aristocratic New York was dining, and receiving after dinner; the ominous New York shivered at its lodgings or crowded round bar-room stoves; evil New York was drinking, and working mischief. There was a certain region where all these various elements of the community came into contact with one another; and there, on this night, was the street, in spite of their chilliness, were as bustling as at noon-day.

The sky was clear and all the stars were in their places, though few of the city's inhabitants were at the pains to look up between the high buildings and assure themselves of the fact. Fortunately for the stability of the solar system it is not essential thereto that mankind should take after it. Moreover, the electric lights were blazing aloft, and though they were dim enough it flooded the streets with radiance, made the heavens look dark. On the pavements the shadows of the buildings, of the leafless trees, of the telegraph wires, of the passers-by, were silhouetted as sharply as if cut with a pair of scissors—the shears of the Fates, perhaps. So peculiar is the aspect of these shadows of the victims of light—so different from the shadows of the sunlight, or of the moon—that they never fail to attract the attention of those who behold them for the first time. They could, however, scarcely have been a novelty to the man who, standing beneath the porch of the Gilsey House, with a lighted cigar between his fingers, bent his gaze upon them in deep abstraction. For if any citizen of the chief city of America were intimately acquainted with its every phase and manifestation, that citizen was assuredly the one we speak of. Another man, who was slouching up and down the pavement near by, and sending furtive glances in all directions, may be recognised as the individual heretofore introduced as Muggins.

All of a sudden Muggins slouched up to the gentleman with the cigar and pulled him by the sleeve.

"That's him!" he exclaimed, below his breath; "that's your man, inspector! That's Mike McGloin!" And he pointed with his finger to an individual amid the throng that was hurrying by in the frosty air.

The inspector instantly roused himself from his abstraction, and looked in the direction indicated.

His glance fell upon a man whose countenance, though young in years, was darkened by evil instincts. The features were cast in a mould rather comely than otherwise; but the attractiveness which they might else have possessed was marred by an insolent and braggart expression, oddly combined with the low cunning suggestive of the thief. The fellow was dressed in what is known as a sloppish suit of clothes; but as he swaggered by, there was that in his bearing that betrayed the self-conceit of the fop and the rowdy combined.

The inspector tossed away his half-smoked cigar (which was incontinently pounced upon by Muggins) and stepped out into the glare of the electric lamps. His shadow projected after that of McGloin, and kept pace with it. An attendant followed him at a discreet distance.

The clock of the Gilsey House, glowing high aloft like a moon, marked nine o'clock. As the icy north wind blew against the pedestrians it carried with it a sharp sound and thrust his red hands into his trousers pockets. Presently he turned a corner to the left, and after proceeding about half-way down the block, entered the door of a grogshop. The window of this establishment was protected by a greasy and tattered window-shade, and over the portal a dimly-burning lamp was suspended from a rusty iron shaft.

Within the atmosphere was foul with clouds of tobacco smoke, and heavy by the exhalations from the big stove at the further end of the room. Round this stove was congregated a noisy company, mostly youths of twenty years old and under, who imitated the conversation and bearing of grown-up men, and fancied that they enjoyed the honours of maturity when they only aped its vices. They were seated in an irregular semicircle, with the stove in the midst of them, their legs being extended toward it in various attitudes of negligence. Among the rest appeared a small pair of feet, encased in neat gaiter-boots with French heels, and appertaining to a remarkably pretty young woman, in whose countenance the freshness of girlhood was rendered sinister by the absence of girlish innocence.

The new-comer was evidently a familiar figure to this group; and as he lounged at the bar, and tossed off a couple of fingers of crude whisky, they hailed him as "Mike," and inquired his views as to certain sporting events which were expected to come off within the next few days. The person thus appealed to assumed a domineering and dogmatic air, and lost no opportunity of browbeating and bulldozing his interlocutors; who, for their parts, accepted his hectoring with meekness, and made no attempt to contest his supremacy in their councils. The young girl looked attentively at him, but said nothing, although he once or twice addressed what he perhaps considered to be a gallant remark to her. Had she been asked her opinion about him, she would probably have replied that he wasn't bad looking, but that he looked bad, and was not her style, any way. In fact, his manners could not be called conciliating. But, as among the blind the one-eyed man is king, so among this crowd of half-baked young scamps, Mike McGloin was master. He was a little more audacious, more experienced, more depraved than they, and therefore they submitted to his leadership.

But McGloin was restless; he could not long be at ease in any one place. Like the wandering Jew, something within him seemed ever impelling him to go on. So, after a brief sojourn in this captivating retreat, he tossed off a final gulp of whisky, threw the price of it down upon the counter, and with a parting wink at the young woman with the French heels, he swaggered out into the frozen streets once more.

As he forged along, with his chin on his breast and his hands in his pockets, the pursuing shadow still kept pace with his own upon the pavement. At the corner of the next avenue there was a large cigar store. McGloin took a peep through the glass door, and, apparently satisfied with what he saw, opened it and walked in.

The place was as well filled as the other, and with an even more ill-looking company. But these were not youngsters just launching out upon a career of dissipation and crime. They had seen many phases of life; they had passed through various vicissitudes; they were, in the bad sense, men of the world. A couple of compactly-built fellows, with clean-shaven faces, small eyes, and flat noses, were evidently graduates of the prize-ring. A tall chap with a fur cap on his head, a three days' growth of beard on his chin, and wearing a voluminous overcoat, was professionally interested in dogs, and was noted for his success in evading the law regarding dog-fights. Astride of a chair, his arms resting upon its back, was a lantern-jawed athlete who was in the habit of replenishing his constantly depleted exchequer by giving sparring lessons to young gentlemen of wealth and education. Consulting together in a corner were a brace of sharp-faced individuals who courted fortune on the race-track, or wherever else the odds could be arranged to suit the initiated. In the background was a cluster of hulking loafers, evidently prepared to take a hand in any job that promised large returns for a plentiful investment of audacity or cunning.

In this assemblage McGloin's swagger collapsed as the distended tail of a turkey-cock under shame itself at the ominous shadow of the sparrow-hawk. These men were to him what he was to the youths of the lowly grogshop. His bullying tones moderated themselves to a hoarse affability; his intolerant eye now blinked and swerved deferentially; his pose lost its arrogant assurance, and became servile and apologetic. His scornful laugh was turned into an appealing giggle. These veteran scoundrels were neither his inferiors nor his equals; they were his ideals, his masters, the gods of his depraved idolatry. He insinuates himself into any group that condescends to tolerate his presence, he cringes like a spaniel before those who notice him, and it is the acme of his ambition to be seen in their company and to be numbered among their intimates. But they have private affairs of their own to discuss, and dismiss him aside with scant courtesy. So he slinks to the door, and out upon the frozen streets again. And again the lively lamps show another shadow gliding behind his own.

After rambling hither and thither aimlessly for a while, McGloin, seemingly stimulated by the whisky which he had swallowed, entered the Seventh-avenue, at its junction with Twenty-ninth street. Here, as he knew, he could be collected a half-dozen young loafers of his own age and disposition, to whom he joined himself. His swagger had returned to him; he laughed and joked and bragged as boldly as ever. Presently he was engaged in the agreeable and genial pastime of handying jests with a certain coarse, red-faced, coloured and brilliantly dressed female.

At this hour, parade the streets like spangled performers before their booths, luring the unwary to come within. Each of them apparently himself an adept; he was the loudest, the coarsest, the most impudent of all. Such sordid gallantries had an evident fascination for him, and he prided himself upon his prodigality of wit and his inexhaustible vigour, and keeping high-fed Horses in health. vulgar, and keeping high-fed

"Hello, Banfield!"

"Hello, Mike!"

The two sauntered off side by side, conversing, earnestly and in subdued voices; the shadow in their wake. Mischief of some kind was afoot; what it was remained to be seen. Apparently, however, the denouement was not to be to-night; for, on the corner of Thirteenth-street, the pair separated with an "all right" from one and the other; Banfield returning southward, while McGloin continued on toward the east, and eastward also drifts the shadow. But the vagaries of the evening were now at an end. The young ruffian let himself in at the door of a mean-looking dwelling-house in the vicinity of the 30th street, and the shadow, noting the number over the entrance, passed on, having fulfilled its mission.

The inspector and Muggins also returned up the street, and parted at the corner. The former walked down Sixth-avenue deep in meditation.

Beyond doubt, appearances were against McGloin, both in general and in particular. Young as he was, his name had already been associated with more than one offence against the law. His companions were of the lowest class, and, as this night's investigation had sufficiently shown, his habits and haunts were evil. Moreover, as regarded the case at present under investigation, his record, though by no means conclusive of guilt, bore a suspicious appearance. He lived not far from Hanley's dwelling and was accustomed to prowl around that vicinity. He had owned a pistol similar to that with which the murder was committed; on the day of the murder, this pistol was known to have left his possession; immediately after the murder, precisely such a pistol had been pawned at a neighbouring pawnbroker's. These might be coincidences; but it was at least reasonable to regard them as indications pointing to a crime. More links were wanted, and they must either be found or proved not to exist. Might it not be possible, with a fellow of Mike's self-conceit and vanity as McGloin, to induce him to incriminate himself?

It was probable, indeed, that McGloin's guilt (assuming him to be guilty) was known to one or more of his intimates. But it was vain to expect that they would betray him. If they had not been actual participators in his crime, they would, as events experienced rascals, who had tasted the bitter fruit of evil doing, and had learned the value of a silent tongue. There was, therefore, nothing to be got out of them. McGloin would have to be his own accuser.

To those versed in the methods of criminal investigation this conclusion would seem to interpose an impenetrable barrier between justice and the offender. Without some person would look to see a murderer put the halter round his own neck? But the inspector's experience had shown him the possibility of many apparently impossible things. He remembered men who had committed grave crimes, and who, contrary to all anticipation, had been led into damning admission of their guilt. In order to secure this result, however, the criminal's character must be understood, his idiosyncrasies studied, his weaknesses played upon. McGloin's weak point was unquestionably a low kind of vanity—a vanity to augment his importance in the eyes of those whose admiration he coveted. It was this craving that was at the root of all his evil and vicious deeds. A mind ruled by such a passion could be assailed, and by judicious management rendered to some extent pliable. Perhaps, after years of yearning for sinister notoriety might guide him unawares to the steps of the scaffold, and even cause him to ascend them.

But how was to stimulate this fatal vanity? Hardly the inspector himself: nor would any of his subordinate officers be likely to succeed any better. He was too shy and too shrewd a talker. He must be approached in some novel and unexpected way; his suspicions and his prudence must be disarmed. The problem was a difficult one. Perhaps, after all, it would be better to await the result of the investigation into the identity of the ticket forger. If he and McGloin turned out to be one and the same, the solution of the mystery would not be far off.

Such were the inspector's meditations as he traversed the long avenue, now almost entirely deserted; for the icy wind had driven to their homes nearly all who had a home to be driven to. But, as he approached a corner, on account of a street, he saw a group of brawlers collected in front of it, all talking and gesticulating vigorously. The bar-leader of the place, it appeared, had put a slight upon one of the women of the party, and, upon its being resented, had turned the entire gang out on the sidewalk. The inspector stepped aside into the shadow of adoorway, until the advent of a policeman sent the gang scurrying in various directions. Then, coming out into the glare of light, he found one girl still remaining—a youthful and not preposessing creature—who had dropped some trinket and was searching for it on the pavement. The inspector recognised the girl. She was the same one we caught a glimpse of earlier in the evening at the low greggery near Broadway. But the detective's business lay in the avenue, now no longer entirely deserted; for the icy wind had driven to their homes nearly all who had a home to be driven to. The soldiers went off with extraordinary dash and scored their only goal before the expiration of two minutes' play. Undaunted by this reverse, it became apparent that the visitors' front rank lacked combination. Their backs, however, were exceptionally good. Private Walford's kicking was also a conspicuous feature in praiseworthy. Walford's kicking appeared to be more suitable, indeed, to three Town backs, were upon certain local terms with themselves and completely spoiled the visitors' attack.

This afternoon the Town will appear against the C.E.Y.M.S. upon the Earlham Road ground, Norwich, in the qualifying competition of the English Amateur Cup. The Norwich team are in the first rank, so they would probably pull through, but, unfortunately, experience has taught that the rule is—although, of course, there are exceptions—that a team never put their form so well away as at home. Therefore, I should rather expect a little trouble. The Norwich side is a very tough fight. R. G. Steward, who last year was playing full-back for the Town, is now a member of the C.E.Y.M.S., and, provided he is able, I believe, to oppose his old comrades this afternoon.

Two matches only were played on Saturday in the North Suffolk League. Beccles College followed up their excellent performance of the previous week, viz., drawing with the Caxton upon the Caxton ground, by beating the Eastern Counties team, at Bungay, by a good nothing. They have thus succeeded in taking three points out of two of the best teams in the league, both games being played away from home. It is exceptional that the Junior Cup holders came off victorious by four goals to two. Bungay, however, were on the best of the table, with the same number of points as the Chaucer Press, but a game in hand. The match was rather expected a little more interesting than it proved, very one-sided fight. R. G. Steward, who last year was playing full-back for the Town, is now a member of the C.E.Y.M.S., and, provided he is able, I believe, to oppose his old comrades this afternoon.

With regard to Suffolk it cannot be said they covered themselves with glory. The forwards were a very mediocre lot, Kent, of Ipswich Town, being far ahead of his confreres. It was a mistake to play Ward at centre-forward, a more experienced player would have done far better. His judgment on many occasions was at fault. The halves were moderate. Of the backs much can be said in their favour. Bailey defended splendidly, frequently being applauded for his fine tackling and kicking, while Berwick did equally well on the opposite wing. Goal, Wigsell, was not blameable for the heavy score against him.

The following players, &c., took part in the game:—Suffolk: P. B. Ferguson (Ipswich Town), goal; A. Bailey (Ipswich Town) and E. H. Berwick (Leiston), backs; A. J. Howard (Ipswich Town), F. W. Turner (Ipswich Town), and G. H. Cooper (Woodbridge), half-backs; E. A. Kent (Ipswich Town) and C. Drake (Haverhill Town), right; J. M. Ward (Beccles Caxton), centre; G. H. Wigsell (Ipswich Town), left; and W. Scott (Stowmarket), left. Captain: Bailey. Referee: Mr. J. Gostling (Ca'us) (capt.), goal; Mr. T. Lobb (Magdalen) and G. H. Cooper (Clare), backs; Mr. Middleditch (Jesus), *C. O. S. Halton (John's), and A. R. Lowe (Selwyn), half-backs; *F. W. Lowe (Pembroke), centre; H. J. Brabbent (Jesus) and C. J. Burnus (Clare), left. Umpires: Mr. Oakley (Trinity) and Wilshire (N.C.F.A.). Linesmen, Messrs. W. Kemp (Referees' Association) and A. Pretty (Suffolk).

On Thursday Beccles College Boys visited Yarmouth to play the Swifts on the Recreation Ground. Swifts won the toss, and elected to play with a slight wind in their favour. College kicked off, and immediately pressed a corner. The visitors pressed, and completely penned the home team, but were unable to score. After ten minutes' play, the Swifts broke away and forced a corner, from which a goal was scored. After the kick-off the Collegians again pressed, gaining corner after corner, but the defence proved to be too strong, and the visitors' goal remained intact. The second half was a repetition of the first, the Swifts putting on another goal, the Collegians also getting the ball past the goal-keeper once, the homesters thus winning by four goals to two. The College team was considerably weakened by the absence of Weston. For the home team the goal-keeper was far and away the best on the field, Robertson, Neal, and Hall also shining. For the visitors, Hockey played well at back, while Needes was most useful amongst the forwards, Robertson, Jones, and Hall also behaved well. The score certainly does not represent the game, for the home team only crossed the half-way line four times and College were pressing the whole of the time. Had they been penned in their own goal. Beccles College: Goal, S. Hall; backs, H. Hockey and V. Needes; half-backs, G. Robertson, C. T. Williams, and T. Wilkinson; forwards, B. Neetes, A. J. Cunningham, F. Gosling, R. Davenport, and C. White.

Nacton and District, as a new organisation, deserve kindly notice. They have already made a speedy start of success, and have lost one, and then only by four goals to three. Their total score is 40 goals to their opponents' 13. Goal, Mr. Bowden, the new Rector of Nacton plays with the club. Play up "Nactonians."

Cowell's matches for to-day are as follow:—1st XI. v. St. Mary Steke, on Stoke Rectory ground. 2nd XI. v. Middle School Past and Present 2nd, on Gyppswick Park. 3rd XI. v. Nelson 2nd, on Nelson Road ground. 4th XI. v. Higher Grade 2nd, Gyppswick Park. 5th XI. v. Orwell Rangers, on Recreation Ground.

Both Sundonland and Everton were successful on Saturday, and therefore their relative positions remain unchanged; the games ended as follows, the first named being the home clubs:—Aston Villa beat Notts Forest (4-1), Blackburn Rovers beat Bolton Wanderers (3-0), Wolverhampton Wanderers and Stoke played a draw (0-0); Sunderland beat Liverpool (3-2); Derby County beat Preston North End (3-1); Bury beat West Bromwich Albion (2-0); Everton beat Blackburn Rovers (3-1). There were no mid-week matches, the table now reading as follows:—

	Goals				Pts.	Won.	Lost.	Drn.	For.	Agst.	Pts.
Everton	13	—	9	=	1	3	—	43	20	—	21

Stoke	13	—	2	=	1	3	—	18	30	—	6

In the Second Division Notts County and the leaders Bury, met at the home of the Lacemen; the result was that the Lancastrians received their second reverse this season, the English Cup holders pulling off a hard-earned victory by two goals to one. Harrington, may Ipswich School and Town, is reported to have kept goal finely for Notts. Woolwich Arsenal beat Newcastle United, and therefore remain a point in front of the county's aspirations, the remaining matches resulting in Darwen beating Lincoln, Grimsby beating Newton Heath and Darwen. The table has undergone but little alteration from last week.

ALDEBURGH: WRECKAGE WASHED ASHORE.—A life buoy, bearing the name "William Bedford," and a cask of supposed palm oil, have been washed ashore at Aldeburgh; whilst a quantity of cargo has been washed ashore at different parts of the coast.

ALDEBURGH POPULAR CONCERTS.—On Friday a most enjoyable concert was given in the Jubilee Hall, at Aldeburgh, by Mr. H. E. Wyatt and a number of the masters and pupils of Framlingham College. If everything else is as well taught there as music is (writes a correspondent) parents may well be well content with Framlingham College. Better part singing is rarely heard than that given at Aldeburgh last Friday by Mr. Alfred Pecover, Mr. Wyatt, and Mr. Jay, with Messrs. Edwards, Mus. Bac., Oxon, played several plan forte solos, and all the accompaniments. Miss C. B. Trask, whose rich and sympathetic voice was heard last year at Aldeburgh, sang four songs and a duet, "Venetian Song," with Mr. Alfred Pecover. Miss Trask has a fine contralto voice, which has been thoroughly well trained by Mr. Sims Reeves and Mr. W. H. Cummings. She is heard to great advantage in sacred orchestral music. Altogether the only fault on Friday was that the concert was too short for the taste of the audience.

BADINGHAM: A FARMER'S FAILURE.—The Official Receiver has issued a statement of the affairs of George Barber, of Badingham, farmer, which shows liabilities to rank, unsecured £1,900, and estimated assets £4993 8s. 8d. The assets are estimated at £2610s., leaving a deficiency of £2482 13s. 8d. The Official Receiver says:—The debtor, who has been mainly farming nearly 100 acres of land, states that for some years he had a country shop at Badingham, to which he was successful. He attributes his failure in farming at that time a capital of about £400 or £500. He has kept no books of account. He attributes his insolvency to loss of stock by death, and to the price of corn. Property estimated by the debtor to be worth £76 10s., includes hay, straw, and roots, worth about £40, and the other articles are valued by the debtor. If this debtor's statement is correct, the liabilities entitled to distrain for half a year's rent.

BECCLES: THE RECENT DROWNING OF A FISHERMAN.—The Shipwrecked Fishermen and Mariner's Royal Benevolent Society have made a special grant of £2 to Mrs. Drew, of Beccles, the wife of a fisherman who was recently washed overboard while fishing off Lowestoft.

BECCLES: SUSPECTS DISCHARGED.—At Beccles Police Court, on Friday, John Woodyard, labourer, Joseph Martin, and Thomas Martin, all of Beccles, were charged with being suspected of a game offence. On the night of the 13th instant a shot was fired in the direction of the wood of Mr. Bolingbroke, and soon afterwards Police-constable Bailey saw the defendants with guns in ingate Road. He seized the guns.—Mr. J. K. Stanford, for the defendants, said the Bench dismissed the case, ordering the guns to be returned.

BECCLES: "WAVENEY" HABITATION OF THE PRIMROSE LEAGUE.—A meeting of this Habitation was held in the Town Hall, Beccles, on Wednesday evening, under the presidency of Mr. W. M. Crowfoot, J. P. Mrs. H. E. Foster, Lowestoft, was present, and received a hearty welcome. The member for the division, Mr. H. S. Foster, M P., wrote urging the Habitation to adhere to the principles of the League, and increasing their ranks at a time when they were threatened by a Government of Little Englanders with a view to the aim of which was to destroy all the institutions of their country, and to transform the United Kingdom into a Republic, to keep together their crowd of log-rollers, and to hide their own weakness and failure.—The Chairman reminded the Conservative workers, as they had been addressed by the Governor, who said they intended to abolish, or reform, or renote, the House of Lords. The attack on the Church would be carried on by the leaders of the Primrose League. A weak Government, like a weak man, was worse than a bad one. It was more dangerous to the country. The Government was composed of a majority scraped together partly from Ireland, partly from their own political party (cheers), each of them having their own fads and fancies which alone they cared to get carried. A Government which relied upon such heterogeneous support could not govern any good and efficient legislation. He called attention to the disparity in electoral power in Ireland and England, and the injustice of the present arrangement of the constituencies, in which England would have her fair and proper share.—Mr. Noble attended as deputation, and a pleasant evening was given during the evening by members of the League.

BERGHOLT: VISIT OF THE ESSEX AND SUFFOLK FOXHOUNDS.—This pack met at the Dog and Pheasant, Myland, on Monday, when there was a large field out, and a capital run was had. The hounds then visited Colvin (easter), Miss Colvin, Mr. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Mumford, Mr. and Mrs. Lermette, Messrs. A. T. Osborne, Tom Osborne, Mrs. Bawtree, A. Lee, Mrs. H. Dunnett, Willie Green, H. R. Poole, and others. The run in gorse at Ford's Farm was first drawn without result, and then a second part of the day's sport, which was also drawn blank, and a move was made to Bergholt Hall, where a fox was found at once, which led us in a fine run through Dedham Vale, the fence back to Bergholt Hall, and from there over to Fordham Heath, and into cover where he was lost. The hounds were then taken back, and Fordham Hall was visited again findlng. Horkesley plantation was drawn on the way back, and proved blank.

BRAMFORD: LECTURE ON THE WEST INDIES.—On Tuesday evening Mr. R. Packard, jun., gave an excellent lecture on the West Indies in Bramford room, at the Bramford Works, descriptive of his recent tour in the West Indies. A report of Mr. Packard's lecture will be found under our "Church Notes and News."

BRAMFORD: FOREIGN MISSIONS.—The annual services for foreign missions were held in this Church on Sunday, and collections made in aid of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel. Holy Communion was celebrated at 8 a.m., and there were the usual services at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. The sermon in the morning was preached by the Rev. Vicar, and by the Rev. Barker. The preacher in the afternoon was the Rev. A. Salmon, who has been engaged in missionary work for the last 20 years in Trichinopoly. The offertories and collections amounted to £6 13s. 6d., and in addition to this £6 4s. 5d. has been received from the missionary boxes, making a total for the Society of £12 17s. 11d.

BRAMPTON: MARRIAGE OF MISS SHOOTER.—At Brampton, near Beccles, on Tuesday, the marriage of Mr. E. T. Foulsham, of the Railway Hotel, Lowestoft, son of Mr. Councillor Foulsham, of Yarmouth, with Miss Kate Shooter, youngest daughter of Mr. W. Shooter, farmer, of Brampton, was solemnised at the parish church, the rector (Rev. T. S. Curtois) officiating. The bridesmaids were Miss Ethel King, Miss Ada and L. Cunningham (cousins of the bride), and Miss Mary Goulding. Mr. Harry Young, of Beccles, was best man, and the bride was given away by her father. The service was choral, Miss Cropsell being at the harmonium. The bride was beautifully dressed, and looked very pretty. At the conclusion of the ceremony, the "Wedding March" was played by Miss Nicol, and the bridal party left the church in carriages. After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, at which a large company were present. The presents were numerous and costly. Those for Babbicombe, where the honeymoon will be spent. The presents, which were handsome and numerous, included a gold and silver butter dish, from the employés in silver, from the employés of Mr. B. J. Foulsham's establishment at Yarmouth.

BEDFIELD: ENTERTAINMENT.—On Friday last an entertainment was given at the Schoolroom by the children attending the Sunday School. The children went through the various songs and recitations in a manner which reflected great credit on the school-mistress (Miss Bird). The room was filled with a good audience, who were much pleased with the performance. Mrs. Brady kindly assisted at the piano. The room, which was beautifully decorated, was well filled by a most attentive audience.

BUNGAY: ROACH FISHING.—On Thursday and Friday last Mr. Barnevall and Mr. H. Hubbard, fishing in the Waveney, at Bungay, caught five score and fourteen roach. Average weight 2 lb., largest 1½ lb.

BUNGAY: VACCINATION PROSECUTION.—At the Petty Sessions, on Thursday, Lewis Bull, of Bungay, gentleman, was summoned by Hezekiah Simmers, registrar, for neglecting to cause his child, Mary B., to be vaccinated. Defendant said he did not consider the child well enough to be vaccinated, but, as he had no medical certificate, he ordered the child to be taken to be vaccinated in 14 days.—Ernest Playford, of Bungay, aged 14, was ordered to pay the costs and damage, amounting to 7s. 6d., for causing a gate, the property of James Tipple, farmer, Bungay, to fall. Ejectment order was granted against the widow Gold, late the occupation of Mr. H. Rushmer for the landlord. Mr. J. Skinner.

BUNGAY BAZAAR.—A bazaar and jumble sale was held in the Holy Trinity Parish Room on Wednesday, the object being to raise funds for improving the lighting, and providing new knockers in the parish church. The bazaar was opened on Tuesday by Lady Brooke, by a fair number of persons, and the numerous articles were disposed of fairly freely, and it is hoped that a satisfactory sum will be the result. Sales were presided over by the following ladies:—Jumbles: Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. H. W. Hudson, Miss Ellis, and Miss Mayhew. Mrs. Webb, Plain work; Mr. Philpott and Miss Maddle, Toys; Misses Cocke, 2; Fancy; Mrs. Hudson, Miss Hudson, and Miss Fletcher. Miss Fletcher. The refreshment room was under the care of Mrs. H. Rushmer, Mrs. and Miss Hailstone, and Miss Woods. At intervals a pleasing programme of vocal and instrumental music was performed, the following ladies and gentlemen taking part:—Mr. Hubbard, Mrs. Tolley, Mrs. E. Watts, Mrs. Sturgess, Misses Mayhew, Ellis, and Cocke (2), and Goffin, and Messrs. L. B. Morgan and J. Dix.

BUNGAY: A LOCAL MILLER IN THE COUNTY COURT.—On Friday, at Gelding Court, before H. Guilford Hop merchant, named Lewis Kile, sought to recover from Charles Marston, miller and hop dealer, of Bungay, £5 10s. 6d. for hops sold. It was said that the hops sold and delivered to defendant on the 20th September of this year. On the day in question the defendant called at the plaintiff's place of business at Bungay and a sample of hops was produced, but there was no agreement on the part of the defendant to purchase the bales of similar hops at 40s. per hundredweight. When they were delivered defendant refused to accept them, alleging that they were improperly packed and would not keep. He then returned them to Bungay Station, where they still remained. Mr. Gilbert Jex-Blake, for the defendant, submitted that there had been no acceptance of the hops under the Statute of Frauds, and that the goods were not in accordance with the sample, which was not obliged to accept them.—The learned Judge held that there had been no legal acceptance of the goods under the Statute of Frauds, and gave judgment for defendant, with costs.

CAPEL BAND OF HOPE.—The members of the Capel and District Gospel Temperance Band of Hope attended service on Sunday afternoon, when a sermon was preached by Mr. Garland. The singing was supported by the Capel Temperance Band, Mr. J. Bugg conducting. Mrs. A. J. Child. In the evening a special meeting was held in the Wesleyan Chapel, the members of the Band of Hope attending in a body. The meeting was conducted by Mr. S. T. Child, and addresses were given by Mr. F. Keeble (Bentley Hall), the Captain of the Salvation Army, Mr. J. Pilbrigg, and Mr. A. J. Child.

DISS: THE COUNTY RATE BASIS.—A meeting was called by the Diss overseers, on Thursday, for the purpose of considering the proposed basis for fair and equal county rates for Norfolk, prepared by a committee of the County Council. The Rev. Canon Jex-Blake, who explained by Mr. Burrage, one of the overseers, that difficulties had been experienced in the Incorporated Unions in the county, and as these could not be adopted for the county rate, which must be fair and equal, a basis had to be found. The county basis was taking the rateable value of Diss, given in 1891 as £21,960, was put up to £24,488, and other pieces were increased in a similar proportion. The basis proposed to be taken as the basis, with the exception of railway property. It was announced that a copy of the proposed basis would be sent to the overseers, as sufficient notice was necessary in order to render effectual first aid. The examinations will take place on December 19th, 20th, and 22nd. The meeting subsequently Hunt admitted in cross-examination that the defendant had ordered the goods to his clothes in the shop and go for the pot-so, if only he had known a little more larger. Mr. Bunch, without calling upon Mr. Tuck, dismissed the case.

STOWMARKET: Y.M.C.A.—We are pleased to be able to record that the efforts recently made by several gentlemen in the town to open a branch of the above Society have met with a very fair amount of success. Two meetings are held each week, at which an average attendances of 30 has been maintained. A strong committee has been formed, with Mr. Pillard and Mr. H. E. Wilkes as hon. secs.

STOWMARKET CONGREGATIONAL SCHOOL.—An instructive evening was spent in this school, when the Rev. C. H. Vine, LL.B., of Sudbury, gave an account of his travels among the Moors. During his residence in Morocco he had ample opportunity of studying the commercial customs, and religious views of the people, and obtained the confidence of an Arab merchant, the Sultan's guards, hillmen, slaves, and many other noticeable characters. These were worn by various gentlemen for illustrative purposes.

STOWMARKET: BAND 'OF HOPE.—On Monday evening the children belonging to the Parish Church attended the Band of Hope meeting held in the schools at the Parish-room. A long programme of recitations, duets, pianoforte solos, and dialogues in character was carried out, which was much enjoyed by the audience, and received with applause. The last dialogue in character, "The Blue Ribbon," Mr. Mis especially well done, and reflected great credit on Mr. Mis himself and others who have had the training of the youngsters. The room was very crowded.

SUDBURY: MISCHIEVOUS BOYS SET A HOUSE ON FIRE.—The cottage in which Miss Ellen Ryland resides at Cornard, was discovered to be on fire about 8 o'clock on Monday morning by a boy on his way to school. Mr. Ryland was just coming down the street, when some children told her smoke was issuing from the bedroom window. She at once broke open the door and found the bedroom filled with smoke and flame. She ran for assistance, and by sheer hard work the fire was extinguished before any serious damage was done. Boys, who are poor people. Most of the goods, including the bed clothes, were entirely ruined.

THETFORD: ELECTION OF BURIAL BOARD MEMBERS.—A vesty meeting was held on Thursday morning at St. Mary's Church for the purpose of electing two new members of the Burial Board. Messrs. J. West and E. Rash, the retiring members, were re-elected, and Mr. Councillor Scott, and Mr. Councillor Cuthbert's there were about 70 parishioners present, and they adjourned to the covered market. The retiring members, Messrs. J. West and E. Rash, and Mr. Scott—were nominated, and, as Nonconformists, the Rev. P. H. Davis and Mr. R. Palmer. A show of hands was taken, and declared in favour of Messrs. West, Rash, Scott 25, Mr. Palmer 37, Rev. P. H. Davis 37. A poll was then demanded for the Church candidates, which was fixed for Tuesday next, the time to be from 8 a.m. and eight p.m. Mr. G. T. Banyard was re-elected auditor.

THETFORD BOARD OF GUARDIANS.—At this Board meeting on Friday, Mr. C. H. Fison presiding, the first business was naturally the question of the recent investigation of the Workhouse, and reports in the newspapers by someone unofficially connected. It was now asked upon what authority this personage had made his investigation of the matter, and it was suggested that the unofficial inspector was a Miss Wood, who had gained admittance to the House by a ruse in the guise of a lunatic. The Chairman and Guardians said they had read the mysterious reports, and, so far as this Workhouse was concerned, they were all more or less inaccurate, and in the future such persons would not be allowed to perform such work. It was also asserted that Miss Wood was employed as the Government Inspector, was very much annoyed at the reports, and that the whole matter was causing the attention of the Local Government Board. The Board agreed upon the pending elections of district councillors were asked, and Mr. Cole gave satisfactory replies.—Mr. Cole moved that the salaries of the Thetford Rural Council Committee be increased, and that the relief list was exceptionally strong, and of the many performers, Messrs. A. Tibbenham and G. Le Feyre introduced new comic songs, which were encored, and contributions were heartily appreciated. The other performers included—Messrs. H. Bird, W. Bird, W. Bird, jun., Bird, jun., and P. Armstrong. Musical bar, bell, and Indian club exercises were given by Messrs. F. Fairweather, H. Bird, W. Bird, and C. H. Stedman. Mr. F. K. Frost accompanied.

LEISTON: I.O.G.T.—On Tuesday evening an entertainment was given in the Friends' Meeting House, by members of the Juvenile Temple I.O.G.T. "Ark of Refuge," Leiston, when a large audience had met to make a suitable opening address, and Blanche Astle presided at the harmonium. The children had been carefully trained by Mrs. Astle, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. and J. Fiddeland, in singing, reciting, &c., and the following contributed to an enjoyable programme:—E. Astle, Hilda Fiddeland, E. Peck, E. Astle, A. Astle, A. Francis, D. Peck, G. Peck, J. Arnold, B. Moss, Wm. Astle, Blanche Astle, Mrs. Astle, Mrs. J. Walker, B. Cracknell, Mr. John Peck, and E. E. Hammond.

LONG MELFORD: INTERESTING MARRIAGE.—On Tuesday the marriage of Mr. George William Hopewell, of Horncastle, Lincolnshire, and Miss Row, only daughter of Mr. C. J. N. and Mrs. Row, of Long Melford, was solemnised at the Parish Church by the presence of a large congregation. The officiating clergy were the Rev. C. J

NEW FANCY RIBS.

NOTE.—Owing to the large and increasing demand for our

RELIABLE NEW FANCY RIBBED CASHMERE HOSIERY,

We have this season introduced several New Numbers. These all contain all the latest improvements in Fancy Ribbed Hosiery, and Brand and Sons have every confidence in recommending them to those who require a good wearing Stocking, without the harsh, skin-irritating effect of hard worsted Yarns.

A special feature in these Stockings is that the foot are thoroughly cleared in all parts, and thus free from all balk.

In handing you the above very special numbers we beg to ask your careful perusal of the Prices, which we are confident are the lowest in the trade; and as you are fully aware that Quality is the test of Cheapness, we have selected only such makes, which we trust you will prove by a sample order.

All orders shall have our prompt and careful attention. Carriage paid on all orders over TEN SHILLINGS to all parts of the Kingdom.

WHERE TO BUY!

[BY OUR LADY CORRESPONDENT.]

I suppose every woman cherishes in her heart of hearts a weakness for jewellery, and I am certainly not an exception to the rule, therefore it was with a considerable amount of pleasurable anticipation that I entered Messrs. H. and B. Fraser's attractive shop in Princes Street, Ipsw tolerate, if he could help it, any sort of check upon the House of Commons save such as the House of Commons could itself remove. In fact, Mr. ASQUITH's latest utterance is equivalent to a declaration against the view taken by the Prime Minister, and throws an important side-light upon the difficulties and discomfort of the Cabinet itself. The verdict of Forfarshire may strengthen Lord ROSEBERY's position in the Cabinet for a time, but it is pretty clear that the combative and aggressive Radical element in the Government, as represented by Mr. ASQUITH, will persist to the bitter end in pushing the policy of "Down with the House of Lords." If such a policy were to be carried into effect the Unionist party desire no more than to fight the campaign. Mr. RAMSAY's best course in the present circumstances is, however, this is preferable to the fate, which, less than a century ago, befel an Ipswich woman, who was burned at the stake for the murder of her husband. Very many people still hold the opinion that the punishment was not yet quite severe enough, and would prefer to see a total abolition of capital punishment; but the apparently increasing frequency of murder does not warrant any relaxation in this respect, even were it desirable for other reasons to do so. The case of Mrs. PRIGG is peculiarly horrible, but the brutality is that shocking deaths by the hands of men would be appallingly frequent.

Returning Officers Fees.

The reception which the East Suffolk County Council gave to the protests of the Sheriff and Coroner's clerks was somewhat disappointing, although strictly in accordance with the Act. It seems a little hard on clerks, with one exception, have allowed their good nature to get the better of them, and by accepting the position of returning officers at the coming elections, "under protest," to have practically waived their claim to suffer pecuniarily. Lord Henniker, however, was rather hard in his criticisms of the officers, who, as far as we are aware, have been thoroughly respectful towards the County Council, and have not, as Lord Henniker slightly, a majority of the Local Government Act Committee charged with the duty of fixing the scale of fees, absolutely refused to alter their terms of remuneration when asked by the clerks, and with these words on the subject the matter must rest. The difficulty in the Hartismere Union, where the clerk refused to act as returning officer, and where the only applicant for the position threw up the offer in disgust, was yesterday amicably settled by the appointment of the clerk's son.

Fertilisers.

The Radical Government made a great cry of what they had done for the farmer when they brought into law the Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs Act, which came into operation at the beginning of the present year; but we are reminded by a Yorkshire contemporary that not a single prosecution has yet been taken under the Act, although it is said to have had a beneficial influence on manufacturers, who were none too particular prior to the adoption of fertilizers and feeding stuffs becoming the subject of legislation; but it would be interesting to know why the Act is not made use of, if only as a deterrent to the foreign dealer with prosecutions left too much work to be undertaken by the purchaser, and now, apparently, because what is anyone's business is no one's business, the Act is allowed to fall into desuetude.

Cattle. Disease.

West Suffolk farmers deserve the greatest commiseration in the heavy losses they are sustaining from Foot-and-Mouth Disease Order, especially as there is no outbreak in their own county. Cambridgeshire, Essex, and Kent have each supplied cases of this dreaded infectious disease, and it is only right that the Board of Agriculture should take all possible means to prevent its spreading; but like many other governmental departments, the Board of Agriculture generally carries its protective measures to extremes, and the universal feeling of dissatisfaction which prevails in West Suffolk was manifested at a crowded meeting of farmers and agriculturists held at Bury St. Edmund's on Wednesday, "to protest against the exceptionally severe restrictions at present imposed by the sale of fat stock for slaughter over a wide area, and are calculated to cause serious loss and great inconvenience to both agriculturists and butchers." The loss of the Christmas trade in dressed meat alone means a great deal to the farmers, and when it is remembered that cattle cannot be brought from, say Bury St. Edmund's to Ipswich market, although there is not a single case of infectious disease in the whole of the latter district, the restrictions appear (as at Wednesday's meeting observed) "worthy of an inmate of Melton Asylum." It was resolved to send a strong deputation to the Board of Agriculture to endeavour to get the harsh regulations modified, and to represent the

PARISH & DISTRICT COUNCILS.

PREPARATIONS IN SUFFOLK.

HOW TO ELECT THE COUNCILS.

Tuesday next will be memorable in our history as the date of the first vote on one of the greatest changes of the century in our local governing system, more especially as far as it relates to rural England. It is therefore necessary, on the eve of the first elections, to offer some information to our readers as to the means to be adopted in reference to the forthcoming contests. Next Tuesday, not earlier than six p.m., every rural parish meeting will be held, when the nominations must be handed in to the chairman, who will decide their validity, and, if necessary, consolidate the effects of any of such. If (December 5th) Chairmen of parish meetings must deliver to the returning officers their certificates of the persons nominated for election a contest or by show of hands, or if a poll is demanded, the names of the candidates in respect whom a poll is to be taken. The same day chairmen of parish meetings must send notices of their nominations to candidates who have consented, and (where a poll has been demanded) a notice of the poll. Also, on the same day, chairmen of parish meetings will receive, if a poll is to be taken, from their certificates of persons elected without a contest, or by show of hands. On the same day, and not later than 6 p.m. December 5th, chairmen of parish meetings must deliver to the returning officers of urban district councils, or urban district councillors, or to the guardians for urban parishes, such of the certificates of the election of councillors for those elections. As soon as possible afterwards the returning officers will decide as to the validity of nominations, and will send 20th December, if their decisions to the candidates. Friday, the 7th December, is the

for elections of rural and urban district councillors, and of guardians for urban parishes, to publish their statements of the persons nominated, and the addresses of the returning officers on the validity of the papers. Up till four p.m. on the same day, candidates for these elections will be at liberty to withdraw by notice of withdrawal, left at the office of the returning officers. On the same day, in the case of rural district councillors, if the number of nominations does not exceed the number of councillors to be elected, the returning officer must send notice to each candidate that he is deemed to withdrawn his candidature, that he will be returned as elected. He must also, as early as practicable, send notice to the chairman of the parish meeting that the candidate will be declared to be elected, and the overseers must give public notice thereof in their respective parishes. Practically, in most cases (say, in nine out of ten) rural urban district councillors, and of guardians for urban parishes, these notices will be issued. Overseers must publish notices that no poll will be taken, and send copies of such notices to the candidates elected. Saturday, December 8th, will be the last day for election of parish councillors has been fixed, by order of the county council, for special reasons, for Saturday, the 15th inst. Up till four p.m. on that day candidates

AGRICULTURE IN SUFFOLK

[By Our Special Correspondent.]

The closing weeks of the present year are likely to be characterised by much activity in matters appertaining to agriculture. The December meeting of the Central Chamber gives promise of being a very important one. Perhaps, however, the most important of the matters subject to be discussed on that occasion is that having reference to the cheapening of the carriage of agricultural produce, and expediting the means of transit. The subject of the cost of transit of the heavier productions of the farm has been debated times and often, and it has been pointed out over and over again that the English agriculturist is hampered at every point. He naturally feels that he has been all along placed at considerable disadvantage by the rates charged for bringing his produce into a great deal less than for home produce. It may be that we are about to have an illustration of the usefulness of continually pegging away at a desirable object. The Right Hon. James Bryce, the President of the Board of Trade, speaking at Ipswich last week, threw out a significant hint that the powers that be had in contemplation the consideration at least of the subject of the

for rural districts. He admitted he could not do otherwise—that the oldest, the most important, and the greatest single industry in the country was languishing, and that its condition needed serious attention. These light railways, it may be remembered, were all the rage. If they act as feeders to the main trunk lines better terms may be exacted from the great private companies. The eyes of everybody seem to have hitherto been concentrated very much upon the great Metropolis, as though there were no other large and important commercial centres to which agricultural produce could be sent without having first to go through the hands of the middleman by way of London. The experiment which was tried last year by the Great Eastern Railway of establishing direct communication with Manchester, Liverpool, and other places, was so far satisfactory that in all probability—of course I have no official authority for saying so—the system will be carried on continually, and very considerably amplified. In the early part of the season, when the green peas are being gathered, and later on, as other crops come in season, heavy trains, picking up consignments from various rural districts, are dispatched through to the chief towns I have named. It was the Essex farmers who largely availed themselves of this effective method of reaching thousands, nay, millions of people resident in districts far removed from London. The Essex farmers go in for the pea-growing and hop-picking in

in certain parts of the sister county as hop-picking is in Kent, and when these are out of the way then come in turn cucumbers and other productions of the field, which find a ready sale if people "in crowded city pent" are only able to get them moderately fresh and nice. Thanks to the enterprise of the Great Eastern Railway Company, they were able last year to do this, and will, in all probability, have the same opportunities next year. It would be well if a larger number of Suffolk agriculturists could make more use of these "pick-up" trains. The Railway Company have shown a willingness to meet the requirements of rural localities, and what has been done for Essex could be done for Suffolk, if only farm produce is left at the various stations en route and packed in trucks ready to be picked up at a specified time, and delivered through to a certain point—comes along. Light railways might be made specially useful in the matter of the carriage of milk and other dairy produce, it being a fact that in certain months London chairmen have found it impossible to take milk from remote places in Suffolk, because it could not reach them in a condition to be saleable. The outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease comes at a most unfortunate time. Possibly, if an agriculturist was not a voice in the matter of the advent of the plagueome epidemic we should say "Never." The Christmas show season is now commencing, and, of course, the movement of stock is hampered with restrictions which are very well, because when herds and flocks are in danger it will not do to be so over particular, and after all it may be better to tread upon a few people's toes rather than run the risk of

and work untold mischief. It seems to be a question, however, whether in order to deal with an outbreak at so distant a place at Linton, in Cambridgeshire, there was any absolute necessity to declare so wide a stretch of country as that of the administrative district of West Suffolk, an area subjected to the worrotting rules and regulations incidental to the orders of the Board of Agriculture. The good people of Bury St. Edmund's evidently feel so, and they have given expression to their views in a manner not to be misunderstood. Let us hope that the prompt measures taken may have the effect of i seeing the difficulties which the managers of various shows have to contend with. It seems that several of the entries at the recent exhibition of the Norfolk and Norwich Christmas Association did not put in an appearance. Several of the Suffolk Black-faced sheep from West Suffolk were absent. If the causeof their non-appearance was due to the Orders which had just been previously issued, then we have an explanation to some extent satisfactory as to the reason why a class of animal which has figu'ed pretty prominently in previous years was not represented on this occasion; but it would seem that there were other causes, notably that there was an absence of classes for lambs, excepting where all breeds have to compete together, and as a rule sheep breeders object to enter into competition in those circumstances. But this was not the only department of the show which was not so well filled up as in some previous years. Gentlemen familiar with the earlier history of the will remember how gradually the entries began to decrease, with this result, that the residents of the town of Ipswich and neighbourhood were deprived for a time of a very pleasant evening spread on which to usher in the Christmas festivities. The Norwich Show long ago assumed almost national importance, it being large enough, and in all respects good enough, to rank in the first with Smithfield and Birmingham. Breeders and graziers in the Eastern Counties have come to be proud of the Norwich display, and every effort must be used by way of patronage and monetary help to enable the society to hold its old place among the great Christmas shows of the country. Many of the rural districts have been in an unwonted state of excitement in re the proceedings connected with the Parish Councils Act. Next Tuesday there will be "more doings" in a parish. Time will have to be an upheaval of country officials, and what may happen in the course of the next few years it is difficult to imagine. If we have not a very different race of work people in rural localities it will not be for the want of the technical Instruction Committee to the East Suffolk County Council on Tuesday last is a perfect study. These are some of the subjects in the return of classes under the Committee's control: Agriculture and the School of Science and Art:—Farriery or veterinary hygiene, laundry work, horticulture, navigation, magnetism and electricity, mathematics, ambulance (women and girls), ditto (nursing), ditto (men and boys), shorthand and typewriting, and one or some of the subjects. The altered state of things is s'most enough to make our forefathers turn in their graves—the good old souls I mean who did not believe in much book learning. Truly we live in a world of change.

MUNICIPAL BYE-ELECTIONS.

LOWESTOFT.

Four vacancies were caused in the Lowestoft Town Council by the elevation of the Aldermanic Beach of Messrs. Henry Jefferies (the present Mayor), Robert Brame Capps, Thomas Hobson, and Ebenezer Tuttle. Contests followed in the North and West Wards, and the polling on Wednesday resulted as follows:—North: Mr. F. E. Smith (C), 505; Mr. J. W. Wright (L), 466. West Ward: Mr. S. White (C), 515; Mr. T. Bee (L), 371.

EYE: A BLOODLESS VICTORY.

Of the five or six persons who report stated were likely to become candidates for the seat on the Eye Town Council, created vacant by Mr. H. W. Cullum's elevation to the Aldermen's Beach, three in one form or another really entered the arena, with what result will be seen below. Mr. Albert Edward Packard, farmer, of Cranley Hall, certainly contemplated contesting the seat, for he issued an address asking for the support of the electors, and subsequently decided to be a right good man and true. But here he stopped short, and never took the trouble to get nominated. Mr. S. A. Bowling, draper, Broad Street, Eye, published a circular paper, which was at least partially filled up by nominators and assenters, but for some reason or other, the process was not completed, or if completed, the nomination was not delivered, so for the time being, and it is hoped only for the time being, Mr. Bowling is out of it. The third and last person to be dealt with is Mr. George Day, the well-known church bell-hanger and campanologist, who, declaring all "canvass" to be of this kind, had his nomination paper regularly filled up, and duly delivered, and he is now a councillor of the ancient borough of Eye, where he was born, but where he has not lived for many years. Mr. Day has issued an address to the electors, thanking them for the honour conferred by electing him unopposed, and promising to study the best interests of the borough.

FRIENDLY SOCIETY NOTES.

[Specially Contributed.]

The opening of another lodge of the Manchester Unity of Oddfellows in Ipswich adds another laurel to the wreath of progress of the Ipswich District, besides serving the useful purpose of meeting the requirements of working men in the west end of the town. The sapicious ceremony of opening the branch, which will be known as the "Orford White" Lodge, No. 7367, in compliment to the present D.G.M. of the Unity and Chief Ranger, was performed on Monday last at the Red Lion Hotel, Bramford Road, on Monday evening, and was attended by the principal officers of the District, as well as visiting brethren.

Bro. Jas. Ball, P.P.G.M., presided, and he was supported by P.P.G.M.'s Bros. John Pye and Alfred Meadows. The vice-chair was occupied by P.P.G.M. Bro. J. Snelling, who had Bros. S. A. Turner, D.G. (Stowmarket), and Bro. J. Mortlock, of the "Lord Lonnox" Lodge, Southampton District, as supporters. The G.M.'s chair was temporarily occupied by Prov. G.M. Chas. Hudson, and he was supported by the Deputy G.M. of the Unity (Bro. W. Orford White, J.P.), also Prov. G. Father, Prov. D.G.M. The other brethren present included—P.G. W. Thurston, E.S.; P.G. S. H. Daniels, I.G.; P.P.G.M.'s J. Day, G. Kennell, G. W. Sexton; P.G.'s F. A. Bales, W. T. Walwright, and R. F. Nobergaller. After the formal opening of the Lodge, no less than 31 members were initiated, a larger number than has ever previously been initiated at the opening of an Ipswich District Lodge, and at very few other provincial lodges.

The initiation charge was undertaken by D.G.M. White, Prov. G.M. C. Hudson, and Prov. D.G.M. Geo. Fisher, the members being "admitted" in three batches among whom were Dr. G. Vincent, Messrs. C. T. Packard, R. Rampling, FORTHCOMING VISIT OF SIR C. DALRYMPLE TO IPSWICH.

Sir Charles Dalrymple, M.P., will visit Ipswich on December 12th, and address meetings on that date, and also on the 14th.

HARTISMERE UNION: ELECTION OF RETURNING OFFICER.

An extraordinary meeting of the Hartismere Guardians was held at Eye, yesterday, when Mr. Edward Bond, solr., of the Clerk to the Guardians undertook to discharge the duties of returning officer in the Parish Council elections. Thus a question which has been long in abeyance and which has caused some anxiety, has now been satisfactorily settled.

A CHILD SCALDED TO DEATH AT DENHAM.

An inquest was conducted by Mr. C. W. Chaston, at the Green Man Inn, Denham, on Thursday, relative to the death of Harry Oakes, aged two years, the son of a master carpenter, at Denham. The evidence showed that on Monday last, while engaged in her washing, she left a tub of boiling water standing on the kitchen floor. She went into the garden, accompanied by the deceased, to bang out the linen, but the child ran back into the kitchen before her. While returning to the house she heard a scream, and on rushing into the room where the child was, found it fallen into the boiling water, and was very severely scalded. Dr. Phillips was sent for, but the unfortunate little boy expired a few hours later. Verdict:—"Accidental death."

MRS. CHANT HECKLED.

FREE FIGHT AT A MEETING.

Mrs. Ormiston Chant had at Bridgwater Town Hall on Wednesday night to face an active and assertive opposition. She was frequently interrupted by questions and cheers were at intervals given for the "Empire." Several persons were at last forcibly ejected. Mrs. Chant declared that she believed a massacre took for that purpose, not in paying five shillings for admission to places of entertainment where dividends of 50 per cent. were obtainable chiefly from the profits of drinking in the auditorium and promenade. She did not mind the public howling and hissing at her if they would only study the question for themselves, apart from the influence of public-houses. At the close of the proceedings a representative of the Chant party, the mildest mannered in speak, but the meeting broke up in disorder, and some free fighting ensued.

THE BORTH MURDER.

CONDEMNED MAN CONFESSES.

Francis Richards, who had been sentenced to death for the murder of his sister-in-law at Borth, and who was hanged on Thursday morning, has confessed. In a detailed account of his crime, in which he speaks first of leaving his ship, the Electra, at Neath on 19th September, and of the money which he had with him, he tells of his visit while under the influence of drink to the house of his sister-in-law, and goes on:—"I tried the window first, and found there was no bolt, and I went in. Then I began to look for the drawer where I thought the money was kept, so I lit a match. It took up about five minutes to secure all the money I could find. As I went upstairs I heard deceased strike a match, and on entering her bedroom I found her with one foot out of the bed. She screamed out, and I pushed her, and then to prevent her screams. No unnecessary violence was used, and all I thought of was to get away. I was not there a moment, and I did nothing to her in any way indecent. I did not intend to harm her in any way, and I am innocent of any such intention. I did not know she was dead at all till the police told me. I was only in the house a little over five minutes, and there was no struggle at all. I said nothing to her and she said nothing to me. I left the house and went out under the door of my wife's house, and the other I sent back to my sister-in-law's." In another part of his confession the confessed man alludes to fever he had caught on the West Coast of Africa and violent pains he had since suffered in the head, and concludes by saying, "I have only come to myself since I have been in custody, and I am nearly broken-hearted at what has happened."

THRAW THE PILLOW ON HER FACE

MUSIC AND DRAMA IN SUFFOLK.

Mr. Henry Dundas's company in the comedy-drama "Pleasure," have met with a hearty reception this week from the habitues of the Ipswich Lyceum. As its title suggests, comedy is the prevailing element of the piece, and mounted as it is by special scenery, similar to that produced at Drury Lane, a critical audience could not fail to derive intense amusement from "Pleasure."

It is to be hoped for the credit of Ipswich playgoers that the engagement of Mr. Otho Stuart's Company at the Lyceum next week in "The Masqueraders" will be attended with good results. That the piece is worth seeing there can be no question whatever, for at St. James's Theatre early this year, it is still running at the same theatre. A short interval to fulfil provincial engagements only has intervened. The London papers were unanimous on the merits of the play. The Times writes, 'The Masqueraders is the freshest, the most vigorous, the most splendidly audacious play Mr. Henry Arthur Jones has yet written." The Daily Telegraph said "This is not perfection, but this is a human play. The men as they stand are of flesh and blood; the women speak to every fibre of our nature. Mrs. Hubert Wilmot's new and powerful study under that name, play the leading part, Dulcie Lavondie, created in London by Mrs. Patrick Campbell, now played by Miss Millward. Mr. Otho Stuart, Mr. Hubert and Mr. James E. Thomson, the parts played respectively by Mr. Geo. Alexander and Mr. Herbert Waring, while Mr. Gerald Gurney plays a character part. The remaining parts are, we believe, all adequately filled, so that a good company is promised, and should succeed and bring to a successful close the autumn season at the Lyceum. The booking for the performance of Iolanthe at the Lyceum, on Friday, Monday, and Saturday, December 13th, 14th, and 15th, is immense. The second effort of the Ipswich Amateur Opera Company promises to be even more successful than their first.

Mendelssohn's and Gounod's works are ever welcome, and it was a happy inspiration on the part of Mr. W. J. Wightman, the popular organist of Turret Green Chapel, to arrange the Oratorio of "Naaman" and the great oratorio. The popularity of sacred music in Ipswich, at all events, was demonstrated on Thursday evening, when the Corn Exchange was filled to overflowing. An excellent programme was arranged by Mr. Wightman, Mr. A. L. Broome sang in sympathetic manner, "O for the wings of a dove," and "The Lord is mindful of His own"; the duet, with chorus, "Lord, to Thee," by Mrs. Read and Miss S. Wightman, were in safe hands; but perhaps the most popular—and deservedly so—features of the evening were Mr. Wightman's fine and well-rendered Sonata No. 4," and the "Recessue and Romance" organ solos by Mr. H. A. Wheeldon (Mus. Bac.), and the piano solo rendered by Miss Hinchliffe and Mr. W. J. Wightman, all of whom displayed considerable skill in their rendering of the more difficult passages. Mr. Wheeldon also did himself credit as conductor. Praise is due to the other contributors to the programme, Miss Wightman, Mr. Wheeldon, Mr. Bateman, and Messrs. W. Goffin, W. Underwood, J. W. Read, and E. W. Smyth. When we say that Miss Hinchliffe was responsible for the accompaniments, which is sufficient guarantee that the vocalists received valuable assistance; but credit should also be given Miss A. K. Smith, who most ably supplied the violin accompaniments.

On Thursday evening the members of the Dramatic Company of the Loiston Y.M.F.S. gave their second dramatic entertainment in the Works Hall, and their reappearance was witnessed by a large audience. The interior of the Works Hall, which has of late been entirely altered and greatly improved, has had a further addition made to it through the kindness of Messrs. Richard Garrett and Sons, who have provided and fixed a new stage, complete in every respect, wings and all, which is a vast improvement, and helps to greatly conducive to the successful production of entertainments. The stage was effectively decorated and furnished, and the performance was that of Mrs. Valiant and W. Wolfe, and the performance was gone through without a hitch. The two pieces chosen were both comical farces, the first being "Slasher and Crasher," with the following cast:—Benjamin Blowhard, Mr. F. Fisk; Christopher Crasher, Mr. E. Drake; Mr. Fisk; Christopher Crasher, Mr. E. Drake; Lieutenant Brown, Mr. W. Osborne; John, Mr. J. Pasby; Miss Dinah Blowhard, Mrs. C. Wolfe; Mrs. Crasher, Mrs. A. Valiant. In this piece Mr. Blowhard refuses the union of his niece and sister to Slasher and Crasher, having heard they refused to subscribe after being insulted. The tables are eventually turned on Mr. Blowhard in a most amusing manner, and he is forced to consent to their marriage. The comedy was full of laughter-provoking fun. Mr. Frank Fisk was intensely comic, acting a part with great skill, and was well supported by Mr. Drake as the other leading part of Crasher. Mr. Blakemore came out strong as the retired trumpeter. In the other piece we did full justice to their respective parts. The characters for the second piece were:—Mr. Bowers bettertinance," were taken as follows: Mr. Jones, Mr. Fisk; Charles Carquest, Mr. C. Wolfe, Mr. Maxwelton, Mr. F. Wolfe, Sammy Maxwelton, Mr. C. Goddard, Allen Grange, and Mr. A. Valiant. In this play a young lady introduces her lover into her uncle's house. The uncle being short-sighted, and not wishing her to see him, places him in his head dress in a hole in the table, and makes it represent a "dolly." In this Mr. C. Wolfe was quite at home in his representation of the part, and carried out to perfection the somewhat uncomfortable performances with the table. — Goddard, as the half-witted gardener, made the life of Mr. Valiant and the actors came out well in the ludicrous climax. Much credit is due to Mrs. Valiant for the excellent manner in which she trained the "ladies," whose dresses were certainly the best that have ever been worn by the members of the Society who represented this weaker sex. During the evening musical items conduced to make the intervals interesting. A pianoforte solo, "Il Lacs Brillante" (Weber) was excellently performed by Miss Wolfe, who, with her sister Josie, later on played in manner, "En Route" (Sydney Smith). Mr. Arthur Dudley also sang to good effect "Tommy Atkins" in character, and Mr. Frank Fisk pleased the company with his recitation, "How we beat the Captain's colt." The finale had all who took part in the entertainment are to be congratulated on its success, to which the audience fully testified by repeated applause, and it is to be hoped that this amateur society will not be long in producing other plays on the local stage.

PURCHASE OF CHRISTCHURCH PARK.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT INQUIRY.

The negotiations for the purchase of Christchurch Park, Ipswich, were advanced a step further yesterday, when Col. Duncl, B.E., a Local Government Board Inspector, held an inquiry in the Council Chamber into the application by the Ipswich Corporation for sanction to borrow a sum of £18,000 for the purchase and laying out of Christchurch Park, and £2,000 for sewage disposal works by the Hermite system of treatment. Supporting the application of the Town Council, the Town Clerk (Mr. Will. Hastell) explained to the inspector that the money proposed to be borrowed was for permanent works, in view of which it was desirable that a period of 30 years should be allowed for repayment. With the exception of a sum of £900 for road making and fences, the whole of the £18,500 was required for the acquirement of the park. The population had risen from 37,959 in 1861 to 37,360 in 1891, and an increased rateable value had steadily accompanied the growth of the population. The rateable value in 1872 was £131,753, while this year the rates had been levied on an assessment of £227,635. This year's total rates amounted to 6s. in the £. Having spoken of the valuable assets the town holds, Mr. Hastell referred to the charge that the burdens of the town would be increased by the proposed undertakings. The ratepayers would next year be relieved of the payment of £500 by the redemption of the Town Hall loan; in 1899 the Asylum loan of £27,000 would cease to exist, and relieve the ratepayers of the sum of £900 per annum in principal alone. Those two amounts, raising interest, totalled £1,460, and were considerably more than the amount the large increased if the proposed loans were sanctioned. In 1910, however, the loan of £45,000 for the erection of a Post Office and Corn Exchange would also cease and thus relieve the ratepayers of another sum of £2,714 per annum. Urban Sanitary bonds of the amount of £1,800 would in January next, be paid off at £60 per year; while in 1910 the burgesses would also be relieved of £1,500 per annum. £1,500 per annum equitat by the setting free of £14,000 borrowed on account of sewerage works. Therefore, proceeded the Town Clerk, with emphasis, instead of the town's burdens being increased, they would, in the next few years, be greatly reduced. The

in respect to the proposed loan would be £719, namely, principal to form a sinking fund in the redemption of stock, £154 a year, taking the sinking fund to be invested at three per cent. The annual interest on the stock at three per cent. would be £550—but if they would the interest to maintain? pertinently queried the Inspector.—To this the Town Clerk made a comprehensive reply. The cost, he said, would be small, and a penny rate would raise more than the annual burden. Having spoken of its accessibility, central situation, and the variety of the trees in Christchurch Park, he had from time to time been put, Mr. Bantoft explained the circumstances which led to the present action of the Corporation having been approached in the first instance ten years ago. He contended that the price was a reasonable one, and that the new Councillors was elected on November 1st supported the purchase.—Mr. J. H. Josiyn and Mr. A. J. Murry opposed the purchase, but what more could they say against it than had already been said repeatedly; while Mr. D. Ford Goddard, Ald. Cowell, and Mr. A. Catterson-Smith urged support. They too, however, were in the same position; the arguments for and against had become stereotyped, and after hearing both friends and foes, Col. Ducnl promised to inspect the park. The question of afterwards engaged the attention of the Inspector. As was fully explained in our columns a short time ago, the Corporation propose to deodorise the sewage while still in the mains, by means of the Hermite process. This means that electro-clyed zinc will be forced into the sewage, which is the effect (as shown by numerous experiments) of totally disinfecting and deodorising the sewage matter. The opposition which had been offered to this part of the Corporation's application; on the contrary, it was strongly supported as being an efficient and economical means of treatment, and well adapted for the town of Ipswich.

THE REPRESENTATION OF IPSWICH.

[To the Editor.]

Sir,—Will you allow me, through your columns, to state in answer to several correspondents that there is not, and never has been, the smallest foundation for the statement, or suggestion of the statements, that I contemplated retiring from the representation of Ipswich in Parliament. When a candidate in the Unionist interest was lately being sought for Midlothian, a statement was put about in regard to me in connection with that county; but I never was even asked to stand for Midlothian, and never was even asked to stand for Midlothian, and much less did I contemplate doing so. The adoption of Major the Hon. North Dalrymple immediately afterwards by the Unionists of Midlothian, put an end to any rumours about me, though it is just possible that his name had in some minds been confused with mine, before his candidature was publicly announced.—I remain, &c.,

AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION.

SUGGESTED DUTY ON FOREIGN FLOUR.

[To the Editor.]

Sir,—Seeing and hearing so much about agricultural depression, and being a practical working farmer myself, I have no difficulty in forming an opinion on the matter, which I trust you will permit me to lay before your readers. I am glad to see that the present Government looked the problem in the face and tried to do something for the benefit of agricultural interests generally, but I very much doubt if they cannot help thinking that the Government ought to look more to our home industries, whatever they be, with regard to what is called Free Trade in England it seems to me to be considered trade. I ask the question, what would become of the agricultural world if it had before steam power was invented? It might be old England then, but what is it to-day as far as trade and production is concerned? We are quite as near to America, Australia, and nearly all other foreign countries as some parts of England were to London and Liverpool before steam power was in use. One thing is quite certain, that unless something is done at once, directly or indirectly, to improve agriculture the land will be forced out of cultivation. I am quite certain most of the arable land will have to be laid down to grass, except what would form of human station. That means that most of the agricultural labourers will be thrown out of employment. I am not much of a politician, but I certainly do think we ought to protect the industries of our own country. I have always said, let all the world send us what they please in the raw state, but there would it not be a great benefit to us if it was manufactured here? That alone would make a large money difference to our country. A duty of what is called wheat cost to manufacture were put upon all imported flour, which, in my opinion, would not cost a farthing more to the consumer. The milling industry would be quite another thing from what it is to-day. I have always held the opinion that if we kept the manufacturing industries in England in full swing we should have a good demand for our home produced meat and barley. That would help the meat bill. Our foreigner in our markets. I have no doubt whatever that most of the good, sound, honest working men will agree that many things might be done to benefit our country at large; but not the loafers, idlers and agitators. They are looking in quite another direction—something approaching republicanism.—I am, Sir, &c.,

RACE BETWEEN OCTOGENARIANS AT EYE.

On Thursday Mr. Thomas Wells, of Eye, aged 86 years, and Mr. Benjamin Harvey, who hails from Ridlingfield, and is 85 years of age, chanced to meet at Langton Green, when each began to boast of what they could achieve in spite of the weight of their fourscore and odd years, especially in the matter of pedestrianism. The contention waxed warmer and warmer as each asserted his title to be the better man of the two, and there appeared very little prospect of the problem being solved until it occurred to Tom to challenge his opponent to a race, which Ben, on his part was nothing loth to accept, and there and then the dis'ance, about two miles, was decided upon. It should be stated that the competitors both travel with the aid of two sticks, and to see them toe the mark, each leaning upon their sticks, and with the left foot well forward for the start. Upon the word "go" being given, both got well away together, and a neck and neck race ensued, till within a short distance from the finish, when Tom spurted, and won a good, if not a fast race, by about 2½ yards, when he appeared quite fresh. Ben, on the contrary was fairly pumped, and declared he could not gave gone much further.

ACROSS THE SUPPER TABLE

PROVIDENT PUBLIC MEN DISCUSS THE FUTURE OF IPSWICH.

The happy distinction between the old-fashioned dinners and the new-fashioned suppers initiated by Mr. Albert Hasell was easily be made. The rent audit festivities, Town Jury Club, and Society for the Prosecution of Felons' carry meetings, were retrospective. The social and festive gathering which has origined in Ransom's fertile brain is prospective. In the one the talk was mostly of the past; in the other it is principally of the future. The public men of town and country who gathered at the Crown and Anchor Hotel, in Ipswich, on Thursday evening appreciated the fact. Their presence, indeed, showed that they were in full sympathy with Mr. Ransom's ambition to induce the upper and middle classes to do so on a scale fitting their respective positions what the lower classes have done in a smaller way through Friendly Societies —"spade" for Mr. Ransom. The unexpected, as Mr. Ranson has frequently demonstrated, is constantly happening to one person or another, and no grade feel it more than those who occupy a responsible position in life. It is for this section of the community that the insurance broker specially lays himself out, and in enabling them to cover every sort of risk secure for themselves an endowment for declining days, or protect their wives and children against the worst. Mr. Ranson claims that he is not only bringing grist to his own mill, but conferring a public benefit. The strides which his business alone has made evidences an increased providence in this direction, and his friends are glad to meet each year round the social board, and congratulate him on what he is doing for the district in general, and himself in particular. Mr. Quilter, as usual, furnished and elegant present, and after the loyal toasts, Mr. T. E. Elkington gave "The County of Suffolk," regretting that the agricultural classes were unable to unite in suggesting a remedy for the prevalent depression.—Mr. E. E. Turner, of Elmsett, said he had hitherto endeavoured to put a good face on the state of affairs, but this year he could hold out no longer. Agriculturists had now got a blow, such as, he believed, would strike home that if a turn in the tide of affairs did not come speedily

THE AGRICULTURAL INTEREST WOULD GO TO RUIN.

The towns must come to the rescue, or they would soon find the depression seriously telling upon them. With regard to what had been said as to the lack of unity among the agricultural classes, he thought that Lord Winchilsea's Union had struck the right key-note in endeavouring to combine all the interests for their common good. If that were heartily taken up they might agree to some extent, and relief, he felt sure, might be obtained from towns. He hoped that they had got to the bottom of things in the matter of this depression, and that the remedy for the relief they needed, and the over-production in foreign countries declining, they might yet be able to make a good fight against the "Universal Enemy."—Mr. J. W. Dencher, manager of the Norwich Union Insurance Company, proposed "The Borough," the Mayor and Corporation of Ipswich," coupled with the name of the Deputy-Mayor (Mr. S. R. Annes) and Mr. Councillor Elkington. Very cordial references were made to the first arrangements which Mr. Anness made last year as Mayor was to attend that function, and they were glad to welcome him there again. Mr. Deputy-Mayor, in response, briefly touched on the events in his year of office which had been reviewed by Mr. Dencher, expressing his satisfaction at the purchase of part of Christchurch Park, and the crowning gift of the mansion by Mr. Felix T. Cobbold.—Mr. A. F. Bailey, London manager of the Union Office, presented the toast of "The Town and Trade of Ipswich," calling on Mr. Lewis Moir and Mr. J. S. Corder to respond.—Mr. Moir, with a wity reference to his literary experiences, said he supposed he was invited to that supper from a feeling that he was like the man who, travelling from Ipswich to Norwich, found his pockets were stripped of his raiment. (Loud laughter.) They did not even leave him a pocket-handkerchief. (Renewed laughter.) Immediately Mr. Ranson heard of his trouble he sent one of his lieutenants to wait upon him on the subject of insurance—(laughter)—and that evening he had invited him to supper. Ha (Mr. Moir) appreciated Mr. Ranson's sympathy with him in his trouble. (Laughter.) —Mr. John S. Corder referred to the antiquity of the town, remarking it might be said of that what was said by a certain mayor of his birthplace—"It used to be an old town. (Laughter.) A thousand years ago

COINS WERE MADE IN IPSWICH,

and Roman coins were and remained had been found near the place.—The Chairman next toasted the "Insurance Managers," speaking with pleasure of the compliment paid to the Company by the presence of Mr. Dencher, the manager of the Norwich Union, and of Mr. Bailey, the manager of the Union Fire Office. He rejoiced at the excellent relations of Insurers which had followed on Mr. Dencher's accession to the management of the old Eastern Counties office. Mr. Dencher's business had shown an increase of 600 per cent. compared with what it was when he took over the duties eight years ago.—Mr. Dencher, in reply, said it did not lie with himself or any other one man to raise a business in the enormous proportions to which Mr. Ransom had alluded. But he must say that no one individual had done more to assist him in making this great advance than Mr. Ransom himself. (Applause.) The antiquity of the ecclesiastic
